

Buffet service & café food waste – weigh and record separately:

Kitchen bio waste

- Skins, bones, coffee grounds, seed etc. originally non-edible

Kitchen food waste

- Fallen, spilled, spoiled due to mistakes in kitchen handling/quality
- Prepared components, mis-en-place wasted in kitchen

Cold & dry storage food waste

- Ingredients past their use-by-date* or spoiled (*vs. best-before!)
- Prepared foods not edible anymore

Serving waste

- Food left uneaten at buffet table, or at display
- Food meant for buffet & display, but wasted from kitchen

Customer plate waste

- Customers' food waste; from plate return station, or dishwasher

FAQ: how do I sort the food waste?

- Skins, leaves etc. prep waste?

Even though it's perfectly fine to cook cauliflower and broccoli leaves, or potato and fish skins etc., here they are considered non-edible bio waste.

Kitchen bio waste

- Customer complaints?

- Wrong orders, mistakes on plate

- Food waited too long at expo (window)?

- All mis-en-place and prepped food from kitchen?

Kitchen food waste
mistakes in quality/handling

- Food from cold and dry storage

past their use-by-date?

- Ingredients/products
- Prepped components
- Ready foods

Storage food waste

- Prepared food meant for buffet or display, but gets binned from kitchen

Serving waste

* Remember: items past their best-before date are often still edible – smell & taste first!